The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

I WANT to drag you away from the Allied offensive in western Europe for a moment to consider another critical situation in our global war—the fresh peril threatening China from the great Japanese offensive, and the volcanic circumstances surrounding it.

Let's start with those volcanic circumstances first as the easiest approach to the subject. We've heard sharp words exchanged in the past few days between Moscow and Tokyo, beginning with Marshal Stalin's blunt characterization of Japan as an aggressive nation. The Allied publics have seized eagerly on this as possibly signifying Russia's entrance into the war against Japan.

Now that's a startling development, for Moscow and Tokyo long have been observing polite silence towards each other, recognizing that they have a non-aggression pact. What then should cause this sudden heat? Stalin is a man of few words and never speaks without purpose.

It strikes me that it may well be connected with China's new danger, which a cabinet spokesman asserts represents the greatest military crisis she has faced in more than seven years of conflict. I'll put a finer point on it than that by saying that China is about as close to being knocked out as she could be and still hang on by her teeth.

The intensified Japanese offensive already has almost completed its capture of the Hankow-Canton railroad, thereby driving a huge corridor—north and south—through the heart of southern China. It has deprived the American airforce of invaluable bases near that railway. It's rapidly nearing a junction with Nipponese forces in French Indo-China to create a land route over which supplies could be brought from Indonesia into China and also on to Japan in these days when the Allied navies increasingly threaten Nippon's vital sea communications. The Mikado's brigades are even challenging the Chinese capital of Chungking.

WHAT'S THE REAL MEANING of all this? Maj. Gen. Wedemeyer, who recently succeeded Gen. (Uncle Joe) Stilwell as American commander in China, says Japan is pouring a formidable army into South China with the idea of fighting out the war on the continent rather than on her home soil. She already has strong forces in the north and in Manchuria.

This creates a position which not only is a matter of anxiety for China and the western Allies but which Russia can't ignore. If China is to be the site of the Oriental Armageddon, it means that huge land forces will have to be brought to bear against the Japanese invaders.

Some Allied troops can be sent

'Hello Girls' Strike

Above is the picket line outside the Dayton, O., exchange after 600 Ohio Bell Telephone Co. operators staged a "wildcat" strike in protest of the employment of out-of-town operators. The strike quickly spread to Columbus and Toledo, where operators stopped work in "sympathy." Service and supervisory employees were called in to keep war-vital long distance calls flowing.

'PHONE TIE-UP HITS 20 CITIES

Postoffice Clerks Separate Mail of 24 Sales In U. S.

Fear Operators In Other Communities May Join In Strike

A spreading strike of telephone operators reached into 20 Ohio cities today and others appeared likely to follow along.

Demonstrating sympathy for operators at Dayton who quit work early yesterday in protest against employment of out-of-town persons?

By the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., operators in city after city voted to walk out and switchboards were manned partially by makeshift crews recruited from other departments of local telephone offices.

Columbus and Toledo followed swiftly to support Dayton, and at 10 a.m. today the following exchanges were virtually empty:

Springfield, Tiffin, Xenia, Findlay, Welsville, Winchester, Sandusky, West Liverpool, Steubenville, Beloit, Martin Ferry, Piqua, Bridgeport, Uhrichsville, Dennison, Fostoria, and Miamiaburg.

Akron operators voted last night to join the walkout, but withheld action pending a vote that was being taken today at Cleveland, Youngstown and Canton.

Spokesmen for Ohio Bell said the smaller cities suffered the worst since their entire operations generally were manual. Local service continued as usual in the metropolitan areas where the automatic dial system is used.

Everywhere long distance calls were often delayed and put through only if they were military or emergency.

Ohio Bell described the Dayton area as "the second most vital communications center in the country next to Washington." The Army Air Forces' two important fields Wright and Patterson, are located there. War plants, ordnance depots and military installations surround many of the other cities affected by the strike.

Miss Jeanette Reedy, president of the Ohio Federation of the Telephone Workers' Southwark council, said at Dayton the operators contend sufficient help could be found locally and it was not necessary to bring in outside personnel.

Ohio Bell disputed this.

RALLY STORE CLERKS FOR BOND CAMPAIGN

Store openings have been set at 9:45 a.m. instead of the regular 9 a.m. hour.

NORTH LIMA PLANE CRASH KILLS 3 MEN

Youngstown Trio Returning From Hunting Trip Are Victims

Three Youngstown men returning from a hunting trip were killed instantly last night when the plane in which they were flying, a Stinson Reliance four-passenger cabin ship, struck a tree and crashed to the ground on the H. E. Hassness farm, one mile southeast of North Lima Mahoning county.

The victims were Harold Jud Youkers, 33, Youngstown Airways pilot; Atty Thomas J. McBride, 34, and Police Sgt. Charles A. Gisdale, 38.

Youngstown state patrolmen said the plane was demolished in the crash and that two off the men were thrown from the ship, but Youkers, who apparently was piloting it, remained in the cabin.

The cause of the crash was undetermined today pending an investigation by Civil Aeronautics Authority inspectors. Little gasoline odor was present around the demolished aircraft, state patrolmen said, leading them to believe that the fliers may have been seeking a place to land because their fuel was low. It was foggy at the time and the pilot may not have seen the tree while making the descent.

The ship had been taken from the Youngstown Airport by the three men early yesterday morning for a hunting trip. Airport authorities said the plane was three hours overdue when reports of the crash reached them.

Three rabbits and three pheasants were found in the cabin, indicating that the trio had been successful on their hunting excursion.

The plane was the property of a Youngstown Flying club, of which the pilot was a member.

HUNTER SHOT IN EYE ON OPENING DAY OF SEASON

One Ohioan was killed and a Columbian county resident was counted among the wounded as hunters took to the woods yesterday for the first day of the new hunting season.

Alvin Lipp, 35, of 37 McCulloch St., East Palestine, lost the sight of his right eye in a hunting mishap near Negley shortly after noon Friday. Lipp was struck by a stray pellet from the gun of a companion, Floyd Hoffstetter, who had had a rabbit.

All these Sales are listed in the Postoffice department's alphabetical list of postoffices in the United States.

Besides the mail that is often missed here, intended for another Sales, local authorities have difficulty with mail addressed hurriedly to Solon, Galion and Sabina, Ohio. Often, Postmaster A. E. Beardmore says mail intended for Sandusky finds its way here.

The majority of these mistakes are due to the "green" help now taking the place of regular mail employees who are in the armed forces.

To curb some of the confusion resulting from so many Sales and the mail that gets to this office by mistake, the Postoffice keeps telephone directories from a number of the Sales in other states and checks addresses whenever possible to determine just which Sales is meant.

Smith is a postman at Clarksville, W. Va., Brownsville, Pa., Greensburg, and Beaver Falls. McDermott reported $800 was taken in the Clarksville robbery, between $700 and $800 in Greensburg and $112 in Beaver Falls. He said the robber fled the Brownsville office when the manager returned unexpectedly.

The men were about 50 yards apart at the time. Physicians removed Lipp's injured eye at City Hospital.

Ernest Zenz, 51, of Wauseon, was killed by a shotgun blast while hunting pheasants on his farm yesterday, a few hours after the season opened. Coroner H. M. Warner returned a verdict of accidental death.

Hunting with John Bennett of Toledo, George R. Lambert of Delta, and Betty Comparta of Norwalk, Zenz was struck in the back accidentally by a discharge from Miss Comparta's gun, Warner said.

Courts-Martial

The army-navy board formed last July to investigate the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, it now seems likely will make a report before Dec. 7, when the period for court-martial, as extended by congress, expires. The board's decision is expected to be either a recommendation for court-martial, or exoneration of Admiral Kimmel and Gen. Short.

Public opinion is confused, unfortunately, by widespread misunderstanding of the function of a court-martial. It is, as the term implies, a military court to determine guilt or innocence. To undergo court-martial is not, in itself, a disgrace. To be convicted by court-martial is not essentially different from the other hand, from conviction in a civil court.

This confusion of public opinion is dangerous insofar as public opinion may exert important influence in such proceedings. Many courts-martial of high army and navy officials have stirred deep public interest, as in the case of the late "Billy" Mitchell, who was found guilty by court-martial of conduct "to the prejudice of good order and military discipline," yet was credited by public opinion with awakening the country to the importance of air power.

Admiral Kimmel and Gen. Short have borne since Pearl Harbor the whole burden of official responsibility for a disaster which complicated the war with Japan. The issue is whether or not the burden of official responsibility also should be placed on quarters from which the two men drew their orders. The decision on that point has been delayed beyond election day and technicalities may postpone it further, but ultimately the people will get the whole story.

Sold In Advance

There is nothing that can be said or done to promote the sale of War Bonds that has not been said or done many times.

That is the best possible reason why the Sixth War Bond campaign, which gets under way next week, will succeed.

The bonds are sold in advance. What remains to be done is to clinch the deal.

There can be no argument about financing the government's war program.

No argument is needed to persuade the citizens of the United States that the smart money these days is going into War Bonds; that is a statistical fact.

No sales promotion is needed to convince the citizens of the United States that money put away during a war boom for a rainy day will be a lot more useful than money spent like water.

No high-pressure selling is called for to make citizens of the United States understand that the best possible hedge against future uncertainty is savings; that the best possible means of taking the uncertainty out of the future is savings; that the best possible protection against inflation is government securities. All these things are clear.

There is, of course, still a tremendous job of reminding and distributing to be done—and that is the purpose of the Sixth War Bond drive. It lasts till Dec. 16. Before that time 14 billion dollars' worth of War Bonds will be put where they belong—in the hands of American citizens.

The Case of Upton Close

Prompt action by Republican members of the house interstate and foreign commerce committee to consider the claim of Upton Close, who claims he is being forced out of a position as radio commentator by pressure wielded through government, demonstrates a proper function of congress.

If his claim is well founded, congress will be called on for action. Ideally, he would find defenders in both political parties, in that event, because freedom of speech is above partisanship. Meanwhile, and pending further developments, there should be a clear distinction in the public mind between a decision taken voluntarily by the employers of Mr. Close, and a decision forced on them by threat of government coercion.

If evidence of the latter can be adduced, a fundamental principle of constitutional freedom is threatened. If, on the contrary, Mr. Close is merely at odds with his employers, there is no question of constitutional rights.

Neutrality's Last Stand

If the position proposed to the British house of commons by Richard Law, undersecretary of state for foreign affairs, is adopted—and it probably will—neutrality has made its last stand in international law. Mr. Law says his government sees no reason why any country which has not made a "positive contribution" to the United Nations' war effort should have any voice in making of peace.

Sweden, Turkey, Switzerland, Eire, Argentina, Spain and Portugal all would be affected, though perhaps in varying degrees. That suggests the forthcoming problem of differentiating between neutrality which favors one side as against another in war; there is no such thing, apparently, as absolute neutrality. But if Switzerland, for example, were to be admitted to the peace councils because it sometimes seemed to favor the United Nations and Spain were excluded because it usually seemed to favor Germany, that would destroy what little remains of the neutrality myth.

Like the myth of isolation, it seems to have no place in the world of modern realities. The United States, it will be remembered, was still a "neutral" when it was attacked by the Japanese at Pearl Harbor—but no one really believed it.

This is the season when too many people hope the radiator won't freeze until it finally does.

Regarding our boys overseas—to keep on their right side, WRITE!

The Stars Say

For Sunday, November 19

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds augury of stress, sorrows, defeat and loss in many phases of activity, with perhaps the domestic, social or affectional ties most adversely afflicted. Under such depressing circumstances be not an easy victim to intrigue, strange situations, or any false relationships. Fortitude, courage and the sustenance of sound philosophy are recommended.

Those whose birthday it is may have a fairly lively year, with some benefits from elders, employers or others in influence, yet all may be beset by personal domestic or affectional griefs or distresses, which should be met with fortitude, religious comfort or sound philosophical understanding. Courage and determination may eventually unfold some real benefits or blessings.

For Monday, November 20

Monday's astrological forecast is for a particularly lively day, with affairs moving under high tension in the direction of attaining most cherished and ambitious objectives. It should be a time to push for such goals with might and main, since there is the assurance of help and substantial tokens of preference from "higher ups." Even against trickery and subtle underminings such friendships may be counted upon. Seek prestige and popularity.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of fulfillment of their dearest objectives if they will forge ahead to such goals, since all reasonable efforts and ambitions will be enhanced by the favors and substantial assistance of influential personages. Work for recognition, with increased credit, and personal prestige and popularity. This may also bear rich fruit in all domestic, social and sentimental relations.

A child born on this day may be fortunate in attracting the support and preference of those in high places, ready to assist to success and personal prestige and happiness.

Movies Join The General's Staff

If Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Eton, perhaps a practice originated on America's football fields may be helping to win this war. For just as a coach looks at the movies of last Saturday's game to study and avoid mistakes in the next one, so our general staff studies combat films for what they can teach in the conduct of war.

In western Europe alone there are 200 combat photographers who shoot an average of 60,000 feet of film a week. This is rushed to London for developing, then flown to Washington. Thus for the first time in the history of war, the generals and admirals who plan the broad strategy of battle may share the field commander's view of its tactical application.

Conceivably this is saving lives and speeding victory. So the next time we growl at spending money for some mine-run Hollywood product, we might temper our ire with the thought that the technical refinements of movie-making are making a real contribution toward winning the war.

Suckers and Skeptics

A Chilean radio producer put an adaptation of Orson Welles' famous "men from Mars" broadcast on the air the other night and achieved the same frightening response. Citizens of Chile succumbed to panic, heart attacks, and an urge to run screaming into the streets in their night-clothes, even as New York and New Jersey citizens did six years ago.

All of which confirms our earlier suspicion that one thing that got our world into its present sorry fix is that its inhabitants were all too ready to believe in Martian invasion, despite elaborate assurance that it was all a joke, and much too reluctant to credit the possibility of Axis invasion, though they were assured that it was all in dead earnest.

Manufacturers' postwar promises mean that many nuisances found only in the homes of the wealthy will be enjoyed by all of us.

Speaking of cigarettes again—we've heard of pack rules but never before of pack hogs.

Peted and pampered children often do just as well as those who just happened to grow.

The OPA has refused Latin American countries' proposal of a coffee price raise. That's cream in ours!

The Causes of Foot Pains

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
CHRONIC continuous pain is not easy to bear no matter where located in the body, but painful feet are possibly the most annoying kind of member to have because every activity of life makes the pain worse

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

and the only thing you can do to get any relief is to sit down. At any rate the fellow who suffers from painful feet is very vexed in telling you that he will trade his kind of pain for anyone else's.

The belief is so widespread as to be almost universal that pain in the foot is due to flat feet and that the cause of this is bad shoes and standing too much, and that if only you can get the right kind of arch support all your troubles are over.

Such a conception of the subject of painful feet is far too simple. The fact that a lot of people can never get the right kind of arch supports alone proves that something must be wrong with the theory.

The foot is a very complicated mass of bones, joints, tendons, arteries, veins, muscles, nerves, bursae, skin and nails and it is used nearly as much as any organ of the body and in performing its functions it goes through quite a complicated set of maneuvers. So a number of things besides just getting flat feet can be wrong with it.

Every foot that is giving trouble is entitled to examination by all the means available to modern medicine, and that is not complete when you just stand on a piece of smoked paper in a shoe store. The cause of the trouble in your feet may be revealed by a blood count, by a heart examination, by a nerve test, by a blood pressure reading, an X-ray, or, most of all, by a patient and time consuming recital of the history of the life.

The troublesome foot may be explained by one or a combination of these factors: (1) Variation in structure at the time of birth that are not consistent with severe usage. (2) The adventures that occur to the foot, including usage, injury and disease. (3) The deleterious effects of wearing apparel which include socks as well as shoes.

Some feet are better burden wearers than others. Foot wearing apparel becomes the sole contributing factor to discomfort when it interferes with natural use by limiting the room the foot should have, and altering the distribution of weight.

the three days that followed were the happiest in my life even though I knew I was going to have to start my career from scratch. If I continued practicing law it would be an entirely new basis. The world! But a tremendous thing had happened to me. I was no longer alone. From now on Mickey was on my side and that made all the difference in the world.

Meanwhile Boggio was to receive every penny he'd ever given me. It would take time, but I was determined not to owe him anything.

A down payment on my freedom I mailed him a check which I had kept a few hundred dollars I had to get back on my feet. I had a few months to go on my lease in my office, so I couldn't afford expenses there. But I had about ten weeks left at Towers for I'd paid half a year's in advance.

"Still determined to back out?" "Stop wasting your time, Perez. Let's get this over with. I've got a dinner date." I shoved the ledgers over to him. "That's all there is. Boggio has the rest."

He fingered the volumes for a moment, then got off the desk and walked slowly around the office.

"Nice place you got here, Kabatack."

I was getting impatient.

"Anything else?"

He had stopped in front of an etching and was admiring it. I began drumming my fingers on the desk but he didn't take the hint. From the etching he walked over to the shelf where I kept some legal books.

"I forgot to tell you," he said, "Mr. Boggio mentioned these, too. He wants me to bring them over."

Perez was so deliberate in his movements that I felt like kicking him. I helped him remove the books from the shelf and we piled them on the desk.

"I have Mr. Boggio's car out front," he said. "You'd better give me a hand."

"Okay."

It was already dark outside, and Boggio's horse-like vehicle was parked about three blocks down, on a side street.

"By you 'out front' means in the next county," I wisecracked as we walked toward it.

Pausing to catch his breath, Perez didn't answer. Then, when we reached it, he got into the rear of the car, dumped his books on the spacious floor and turned to take those I was carrying. The next instant something hard was shoved in the small of my back and a voice snapped, "Get in!" Simultaneously, Perez, having dropped the second batch of books, put his hand over my mouth and jerked me forward by my tie. As I sprawled into the rear seat, the man behind me also jumped in and slammed the door. The motor sprang into life and the car lurched forward.

Courts-Martial

The army-navy board formed last July to investigate the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, it now seems likely will make a report before Dec. 7, when the period for a court-martial, as extended by congress, expires. The board's decision is expected to be either a recommendation for court-martial, or exoneration of Admiral Kimmel and Gen. Short.

Public opinion is confused, unfortunately, by widespread misunderstanding of the function of a court-martial. It is, as the term implies, a military court to determine guilt or innocence. To undergo court-martial is not, in itself, a disgrace. To be convicted by court-martial is not essentially different from the other hand, from conviction in a civil court.

This confusion of public opinion is dangerous insofar as public opinion may exert important influence in such proceedings. Many courts-martial of high army and navy officials have stirred deep public interest, as in the case of the late "Billy" Mitchell, who was found guilty by court-martial of conduct "to the prejudice of good order and military discipline," yet was credited by public opinion with awakening the country to the importance of air power.

Admiral Kimmel and Gen. Short have borne since Pearl Harbor the whole burden of official responsibility for a disaster which complicated the war with Japan. The issue is whether or not the burden of official responsibility also should be placed on quarters from which the two men drew their orders. The decision on that point has been delayed beyond election day and technicalities may postpone it further, but ultimately the people will get the whole story.

Sold In Advance

There is nothing that can be said or done to promote the sale of War Bonds that has not been said or done many times.

That is the best possible reason why the Sixth War Bond campaign, which gets under way next week, will succeed.

The bonds are sold in advance. What remains to be done is to clinch the deal.

There can be no argument about financing the government's war program.

No argument is needed to persuade the citizens of the United States that the smart money these days is going into War Bonds; that is a statistical fact.

No sales promotion is needed to convince the citizens of the United States that money put away during a war boom for a rainy day will be a lot more useful than money spent like water.

No high-pressure selling is called for to make citizens of the United States understand that the best possible hedge against future uncertainty is savings; that the best possible means of taking the uncertainty out of the future is savings; that the best possible protection against inflation is government securities. All these things are clear.

There is, of course, still a tremendous job of reminding and distributing to be done—and that is the purpose of the Sixth War Bond drive. It lasts till Dec. 16. Before that time 14 billion dollars' worth of War Bonds will be put where they belong—in the hands of American citizens.

The Case of Upton Close

Prompt action by Republican members of the house interstate and foreign commerce committee to consider the claim of Upton Close, who claims he is being forced out of a position as radio commentator by pressure wielded through government, demonstrates a proper function of congress.

If his claim is well founded, congress will be called on for action. Ideally, he would find defenders in both political parties, in that event, because freedom of speech is above partisanship. Meanwhile, and pending further developments, there should be a clear distinction in the public mind between a decision taken voluntarily by the employers of Mr. Close, and a decision forced on them by threat of government coercion.

If evidence of the latter can be adduced, a fundamental principle of constitutional freedom is threatened. If, on the contrary, Mr. Close is merely at odds with his employers, there is no question of constitutional rights.

Neutrality's Last Stand

If the position proposed to the British house of commons by Richard Law, undersecretary of state for foreign affairs, is adopted—and it probably will—neutrality has made its last stand in international law. Mr. Law says his government sees no reason why any country which has not made a "positive contribution" to the United Nations' war effort should have any voice in making of peace.

Sweden, Turkey, Switzerland, Eire, Argentina, Spain and Portugal all would be affected, though perhaps in varying degrees. That suggests the forthcoming problem of differentiating between neutrality which favors one side as against another in war; there is no such thing, apparently, as absolute neutrality. But if Switzerland, for example, were to be admitted to the peace councils because it sometimes seemed to favor the United Nations and Spain were excluded because it usually seemed to favor Germany, that would destroy what little remains of the neutrality myth.

Like the myth of isolation, it seems to have no place in the world of modern realities. The United States, it will be remembered, was still a "neutral" when it was attacked by the Japanese at Pearl Harbor—but no one really believed it.

This is the season when too many people hope the radiator won't freeze until it finally does.

Regarding our boys overseas—to keep on their right side, WRITE!

The Stars Say

For Sunday, November 19

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds augury of stress, sorrows, defeats and loss in many phases of activity, with possibly the domestic, social or affectional ties most adversely afflicted. Under such depressing circumstances be not an easy victim to intrigue, strange situations, or any false relationships. Fortitude, courage and the sustenance of sound philosophy are recommended.

Those whose birthday it is may have a fairly lively year, with some benefits from elders employers or others in influence, yet all may be beset by personal domestic or affectional griefs or distresses, which should be met with fortitude, religious comfort or sound philosophical understanding. Courage and determination may eventually unfold some real benefits or blessings.

For Monday, November 20

Monday's astrological forecast is for a particularly lively day, with affairs moving under high tension in the direction of attaining most cherished and ambitious objectives. It should be a time to push for such goals with might and main, since there is the assurance of help and substantial tokens of preferment from "higher ups." Even against trickery and subtle undercurrents such friendships may be counted upon.

Such prestige and popularity.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of fulfillment of their dearest objectives if they will forge ahead to such goals, since all reasonable efforts and ambitions will be enhanced by the favors and substantial assistance of influential personages. Work for recognition, with increased credit, and personal prestige and popularity. This may also bear rich fruit in all domestic, social and sentimental relations.

A child born on this day may be fortunate in attracting the support and preferment of those in high places, ready to assist to success and personal prestige and happiness.

Movies Join The General's Staff

If Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Eton, perhaps a practice originated on America's football fields may be helping to win this war. For just as a coach looks at the movies of last Saturday's game to study and avoid mistakes in the next one, so our general staff studies combat films for what they can teach in the conduct of war.

In western Europe alone there are 200 combat photographers who shoot an average of 60,000 feet of film a week. This is rushed to London for developing, then flown to Washington. Thus for the first time in the history of war, the generals and admirals who plan the broad strategy of battle may share the field commander's view of its tactical application.

Conceivably this is saving lives and speeding victory. So the next time we growl at spending money for some mine-run Hollywood product, we might temper our ire with the thought that the technical refinements of movie-making are making a real contribution toward winning the war.

Suckers and Skeptics

A Chilean radio produced an adaptation of Orson Welles' famous "men from Mars" broadcast on the air the other night and achieved the same frightening response. Citizens of Chile succumbed to panic, heart attacks, and an urge to run screaming into the streets in their night-clothes, even as New York and New Jersey citizens did six years ago.

All of which confirms our earlier suspicion that one thing that got our world into its present sorry fix is that its inhabitants were all too ready to believe in Martian invasion, despite elaborate assurance that it was all a joke, and much too reluctant to credit the possibility of Axis invasion, though they were assured that it was all in dead earnest.

Manufacturers' postwar promises mean that many nuisances found only in the homes of the wealthy will be enjoyed by all of us.

Speaking of cigarettes again—we've heard of pack rules but never before of pack hogs.

Petted and pampered children often do just as well as those who just happened to grow.

The OPA has refused Latin American countries' proposal of a coffee price raise. That's cream in ours!

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

The Causes of Foot Pains

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
CHRONIC continuous pain is not easy to bear no matter where located in the body, but painful feet are possibly the most annoying kind of member to have because every activity of life makes the pain worse

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

and the only thing you can do to get any relief is to sit down. At any rate, the fellow who suffers from painful feet is very vehement in telling you that he will trade his kind of pain for anyone else's.

The belief is so widespread as to be almost universal that pain in the feet is due to flat feet and that the cause of this is bad shoes and standing too much, and that if only you can get the right kind of arch support all your troubles are over.

Such a conception of the subject of painful feet is far too simple. The fact that a lot of people can never get the right kind of arch supports alone proves that something must be wrong with the theory.

The foot is a very complicated mass of bones, joints, tendons, arteries, veins, muscles, nerves, bursae, skin and nails and it is used nearly as much as any organ of the body and in performing its functions it goes through quite a complicated set of maneuvers. So a number of things besides just getting flat feet can be wrong with it.

Every foot that is giving trouble is entitled to examination by all the means available to modern medicine, and that is not complete when you just stand on a piece of smoked paper in a shoe store. The cause of the trouble in your feet may be revealed by a blood count, by a heart examination, by a nerve test, by a blood pressure reading, an X-ray, or, most of all, by a patient and time consuming recital of the history of your life.

The troublesome foot may be explained by one or a combination of these factors: (1) Variation in structure at the time of birth that are not consistent with severe usage; (2) The adventures that occur to the foot, including usage, injury and disease; (3) The deleterious effects of wearing apparel which includes socks as well as shoes.

Some feet are better burden wearers than others. Foot wearing apparel becomes the sole contributing factor to discomfort when it interferes with natural use by limiting the room the foot should have, and altering the distribution of weight.

Causes of Painful Feet

In naming some of the other factors which cause painful feet besides flat feet I will avoid such fa-

Says Nazis Mass Robot Boats for U. S. Attacks

LONDON, Nov. 18.—German surface and underwater vessels designed to sweep into the Atlantic and launch flying bombs against American east coast cities have been concentrated on the Norwegian coast, the London Daily Mail said today in a dispatch from Stockholm.

The newspaper's correspondent, Walter Farr, attributed his information to "high neutral sources".

He said he was informed that both the U-boats and surface craft were fitted to fire robot bombs from their decks "against such targets as New York, Philadelphia or towns farther inland in America".

Lefty just picked up his parachute after looking over the burnt plane and walked off the field, saying:

"I don't want anymore of that kind of stuff. The next time you decide you want to run over a buzz bomb just let me know. I'll get out and walk home."

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Hopes of a return to peacetime production are running aground on shortages of war goods, manpower troubles and what government officials term a lack of public war consciousness.

Republicans and Democrats alike, although concerned by shortages that War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes says could prolong hostilities unless quickly remedied, are pushing plans for a strong peace organization to follow the war.

The War Production board, fearful that talking about reconversion makes people forget the war, may hold back disclosure of broad reconversion plans until Germany's collapse is assured. Mapping of its plan will continue quietly.

Byrnes last night threatened complete suspension of plans to resume limited civilian goods output unless the bottleneck in war production is smashed.

The Senate's foreign relations committee meets Wednesday to consider plans for hearings.

Will Henry A. Wallace figure prominently in the 1948 political marathon? Associates said his political career will not end next Jan. 20 when he relinquishes the vice presidency to Harry Truman. The former agriculture secretary, perhaps with an eye on 1948 and the mantle of President Roosevelt, may want a cabinet post again, they said.

OPA Chief Chester Bowles was called before a Senate group to give his views on a proposal to declare by law that straight-time hourly wages of 65 cents or less are substandard. The hearing, called by a special subcommittee on wartime health and education, will hear WLB Chairman William H. Davis tomorrow.

In desperation he slipped into a friend's room at a local hotel, rang for laundry service, and thrust his soiled linen onto the arms of a maid.

"I gotta have 'em back tomorrow," he said in an authoritative voice.

He got 'em too.

Welcome him when he knocks at your door

THE 6th WAR LOAN STARTS NEXT WEEK

Within the next few weeks in every city, town and hamlet, men and women will be knocking on the doors of American homes. They come in the name of your fighting men, giving their time to take your subscriptions for extra War Bonds.

Welcome them as though they were actual soldiers from the foxholes of the Pacific. Your boys know what cooperation means during a battle—with them, it's a matter of life or death, victory or defeat. Think of this when a volunteer worker knocks on your door. Double your Bond buying during this drive. Buy at least one extra $100 Bond. Then buy another and another. It's going to take a lot of Bonds to meet the goal of $14,000,000,000.

Remember that the Japs are firmly united against us. They have 73 million people at home plus many of the 400 million enslaved people in conquered territories working to prolong this war. Japanese industry is strong and modern, and they have the supplies to carry on a long war unless we stop them.

And remember, when you buy a Bond during this drive, you're backing the boys fighting into the heart of the Nipponese strongholds. Buy Bonds with a grateful heart out of an open pocketbook.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE!

The "basket" of securities to be sold under the direction of the State War Finance Committee is especially designed to fit individual investment needs. It consists of eight issues:

- Series E, F and G Savings Bonds.
- Series C Savings Notes.
- 2½% Bonds of 1966-71.
- 2% Bonds of 1952-54.
- 1¼% Notes of 1947.
- 7/8% Certificates of Indebtedness.

Washington And Philadelphia To Meet Sunday In Pro Clash

Only Two Remaining Teams Unbeaten In Eastern Loop Race Which Nears Closing

BY JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—First place and probable Eastern division championship will be at stake tomorrow when Washington and Philadelphia, National football league's only undefeated teams clash in the nation's capitol.

The Redskins and Eagles met earlier this season in one of the most thrilling games of the year, ending in a 31-31 tie. The 'Skins currently hold a slight edge in the standings with five victories and one tie, while the Eagles' record is four triumphs and two ties.

Eagle Coach Greasy Neal has

Steve Van Buren, the shifty Honduras halfback and Leroy Zimmerman, his triple threat backfield ace, leading scorer of the loop, all primed. Dudley DeGroot, the Washington mentor, pleased with Sammy Baugh's fine showing against Brooklyn last Sunday, plans to take to the air with Baugh and Frank Filchock, leading passer, doing the tossing.

The toughest row to hoe probably belongs to the New York Giants, who will attempt to delay Green Bay's clinching of the Western crown at the Polo grounds. A victory for the Packers would put them far beyond the reach of their western rivals with an 8-1 record, with only one game remaining.

Giants Hope

The Giants, who still have a chance for the Eastern title, will be relying mostly on a wing and a prayer. The wing belongs to Arnie Herber, a veteran of 12 years in pro football, and the prayer to Coach Steve Owen, hoping his backfield ace, Bullet Bill Paschal, will be in shape most of the game. Haschak injured his left leg in last Sunday's clash with Philadelphia.

The Chicago Bears, still clinging to their mathematical chance for the Western title, invade Detroit in a return tussle. The Lions will tie the Bears for second place should they win this game, which will feature two of the loop's top tossers in Sid Luckman of Chicago and Frankie Sinkwich of Detroit. The teams played a 21-21 tie in Chicago a month ago.

Cleveland, loser of four straight after winning its first three games,

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Think Army's Glenn Davis has done pretty well to score 96 points in college football this season?

Well, make way for a few real point-getters from High school ranks.... Bill Chauncey of Webster City, Iowa, finished his season last week with 31 touchdowns and five extra points for 191 points. He gained 3130 yards by running and passing and completed 31 out of 41 attempted trials.... Note to College scouts: Bill is due to enter the Army next week.

SHOTS AND SHELLS

Ernie Calverley, the Rhode Island state basketball star, still is going strong. Scored 27 points vs the Melville PT Boat base the other night.

HEAD MAN'S HEADACHE

Freddie Mandel, owner of the Detroit Lions, would like to see his club beat the Bears tomorrow, but possibly not at the same cost as the last time.... When Detroit played the Bears at the U. of Detroit stadium in 1940, Mandel had to take a seat under a low roof in the press box.... The Lions were trailing 14-10 with 37 seconds to go, then Cotton Price passed to Lloyd Cardwell in the end zone.... Freddie let out a yell and started to jump to his feet.... "The next thing I knew," he recalls, "Somebody was holding a cup of water under my lips. I had dumped my head against that low roof and knocked myself out."

Landis Given Vote To Return For Year

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, who observes his 73rd birthday Monday, can enforce his rigid rule over baseball until he is 86 years old—if he wants to accept the vote of confidence extended him yesterday by the American and National leagues.

A joint committee of the two circuits, at a two-hour meeting yesterday voted to recommend Landis' re-election as commissioner of baseball and the extension of the present major league agreement at the annual winter meeting of the major loops here Dec. 11-12.

The action scuttled wide-spread rumors that a new authority would be proposed by the joint committee to supplant the major league agreement which installed the fiery former federal judge as commissioner 24 years ago.

Flashes Of Life*SODA JERKKER SHAKEN BY MILK SHAKE

CAMP CROFT, N. C.—Clara Revells of Spartanburg, employed at a Camp Croft Post Exchange, broke her arm while mixing a milk shake for a GI.

While operating the plunger on the chocolate flavor her hand slipped and the plunger hit back, fracturing her wrist. She has learned how to mix milkshakes with her left hand.

SWEATING OUT THE WAR

ENIWETOK—A Seabee who worked in the sun all day stripped to the waist, wrote home for some sun-tan oil. A brother in cold, damp England wrote home at the same time asking for a sweater. Mom got the Requests mixed up and the Seabee in the Marshalls got a turtle-neck sweater while the sun-tan oil went to foggy England.

MOM PACKS CHUTES AND STOMACHS

ALEXANDRIA, La.—Three aerial gunners who parachuted safely from a crippled Flying Fortress near here wore chutes packed by Mrs. Eva Gibson. They boosted Mrs. Gibson's score of lifesaving chutes to nine in 16 months.

In her spare time Mrs. Gibson—civilians call her Mom—bakes pies and cakes to keep up the men's morale.

PEDDIN' DOWN FOR CAROLE

A MARSHALL ISLAND BASE—When it was common knowledge that Carole Landis was due, GIs on many a South Pacific isle moved their cots into the makeshift theatre the night before to insure having front seats.

RADIO THIEF TRIPPED BY EAR

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—J. M. Murphy knows his own radio when he hears it—a fact which led to the recovery of his set several weeks after it had been stolen and the arrest of the man who had it. Murphy was walking down the street when he heard a radio playing. He stopped and listened. "That's my radio," he said. Police found he was right.

DYED-IN-WOOL YARN

A MARSHALL ISLAND NAVAL BASE—Three sailors, boasting about their suntans, were joined by a fourth who boasted: "Yesterday when I walked past the dock in shorts, some guy fresh off a ship from Pearl Harbor, asked me how much I'd charge to weave him a cocoanut mat."

into China over the Burma road—it and when that tortuous route is reopened. Amphibious landings on the southeastern coast of China can provide others. But an expedition clean-up might call for the use of Russian bases—and maybe Red forces.

It seems to me that Russia, in recognition of these facts, may be preparing for possible war with Japan. Mind you, Moscow is nothing if not practical. There's no reason to expect her to come into the original fight unless it serves her own interests. If things go well with the American-British attack on Japan, the Muscovites may not consider it necessary to participate. A protracted war, however, would seem to demand their action.

The Russo-Japanese non-aggression pact expires April 13, 1946, but it may be denounced by either party one year prior to that, namely by April 13, 1945. Is Moscow paving the way for possible denunciation five months hence? I don't know, but it could be. Certainly Russia's attitude is a warning to Japan to surrender now.

"Since You Went Away," one of the major screen productions of the year, with a cast of nearly a hundred featured players, will be the State theater attraction Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The film will show at the Grand one day only, Thursday, as the Thanksgiving day feature.

Leading roles in the story of an average middle-class American family in this war are played by Claudette Colbert as the mother of two daughters and the wife of an

MEMORIAL SERVICE

We have given much thought, as to what we could do to help and assist those who are bereaved for some member of the Armed Forces, who has lost his life in action.

Our thought is to offer the use of our Memorial to the public for a Memorial Service for their loved ones.

Relatives desiring this service can make arrangements by calling or stopping in, at which time all details can be explained.

Much thought and investigating has been given this service and we feel that in this manner we can assist those who are in doubt as to what procedure to complete a Memorial best suited for each individual.

A Memorial Service is something that will become nation-wide in its scope, as it is offered to the public, as time passes, as it is one way the family can express their appreciation, for the many thoughts that under ordinary conditions, and in general contact will never be expressed. Since all of us, the public, are very grateful for all the effort made by our boys, it seems we are very expressionless in our explanation when sorrow comes to a family.

To attend a service of this type is a lasting memory and will be greatly appreciated.

Yours for the asking.
